RETIREMENT

BETTY J. HOWARD

Professor Betty J. Howard is retiring with 26 years of service to Potomac State College as Assistant Librarian, then as Head Librarian since 1975. She holds the rank of Assistant Professor of Library Science, and has taught library science, woman's studies, and geography during her tenure on campus.

Professor Howard received her bachelor's degree from Morris Harvey College (now the University of Charleston) in 1953; continued with graduate work at WVU in 1955; earned a master's degree from Marshall University in 1959 with additional class work in 1973; and earned an MLS degree from the University of Maryland in 1976.

Before being hired at Potomac State, Professor Howard was a teacher/librarian at Fort Ashby High School and Elk Garden High School; a teacher at Gassaway High School; and an educational assistant at the Trinity United Methodist Church in Piedmont, WV.

The success of our college library being designated as a national World War II library honoring Woodrow Wilson Barr greatly pleased Professor Howard. Additionally, she has been named to Outstanding Young Women in America.

Professor Howard is a member of the American Library Association; the West Virginia Library Association (and chair of the College and University section); National Council of Geographic Educators; and Trinity United Methodist Church (where she has served as member of the choir, Sunday School teacher, and more).

Betty and husband James William Howard, Jr. reside in Westernport.
